DENVER -- Among the many twists to emerge since John Mark Karr's arrest in the murder of JonBenet Ramsey is his resemblance to a sketch made of a suspect in 1998 by self-proclaimed psychic Dorothy Allison. The long face, thin lips and sharp nose in the sketch are similar to Karr's features.

The Ramseys posted the sketch on their Web site in 2000 with the notation, "Have you seen this man? This man may have been in the Boulder area in December 1996." JonBenet was found dead in the Ramsey mansion on Dec. 26, 1996.

Various news organizations reported the existence of the sketch Friday.

"The sketch was also given to Boulder police, who continued to insist that nobody outside the family was likely involved in the crime," according to the Web site for Denver ABC television affiliate KMGH.

When asked if the sketch had been mentioned in the Boulder district attorney's office since Karr's arrest, spokeswoman Carolyn French said, "It has not been a conversation I have had."
